OFFERS TO BUY CHURCH

Mr. E. D. Steele, representing a number of the members of Washington St. M. E. Church, says he has made an offer to the board of stewards of $5,000 for the Washington Street M. E. Church property, and agrees to allow the congregation to use the church free of charge until the new church is completed on North Main Street.

There are a number of the members of Washington Street Church who do not want to cast their membership with the new church, but remain with the Washington Street M. E. Church, and thus create another Methodist church for High Point. The congregation which would be left is fully able to pay from $1000 to $1500 a year to a preacher, and this they contend would get the services of a good man. Besides Washington Street M. E. Church, as it is, has too large a congregation they say, in fact the largest in the state. Another Methodist Church could easily be organized here, and still the old Washington Street church have all the members that a minister could look after and care for.

The writer is in a position to offer more than $5,000.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER
(Francis John Dyer)

Special to The Review]

Washington, March 4.—With volleys of cheers, a blare of band music and considerable speech making, the day of Democratic triumph has come, and the new administration (made in New Jersey) is fairly launched.

The crowds have hailed the new regime and already are melting away under the hot fire of Washington hospitality, evidenced mainly by a cheerful hand thrust into each of your trousers' pockets to see if by any chance there may be some small change left that you might possibly get away with.

Rival Shows

It was undeniably a clever thing for the suffragettes to do, this concentration of their forces on Washington just at this time, and the holding of a rival parade and celebration the day before the new President was to be installed. The ladies received a tremendous ovation, and they had almost as big an audience as the President himself. The latter was attended by more soldiers, but the ladies made up a program more original and therefore attracting a great deal of interest and, indeed, applause. What impression the demonstration made on Congress is somewhat doubtful, but of the public at large it was far from unfavorable.

Washington Hospitality

Strangers who came to the Capital were simply astounded at the lengths to which the people here went in their extortion. It will be argued that things were pretty bad when Congress attempted to check the highwayman-like methods of the local people, but Congress waited too long, and its efforts to protect the public seemed to be worse than half-hearted. The lengths to which the exorbitant hotel keepers went were not half told. It may be true that the rates per day were not more than quadrupled or quintupled, but the hotels refused to book people for the inauguration week except for special prices and for the full week, as a rule, although some accepted books for five days. The better hotels demanded that accommodations be paid for during a full week. At one of the highest-priced hotels, usually charging $4 and $5 for a room with bath an inquiry made a week or more before the inauguration brought the information that there was only one room to be had, and that it could be rented for the week for $140. Of course a man could stay one day if he so selected, but the price would be just the same—$140. There was nothing that went with the room, except the bath, and it was not represented that the room commanded a view of the parade.

Another hotel, hardly accounted the best in town, asked $35 for a single room without bath for the week, or $49 for a single room with bath. A third class hotel wanted $14 a day for two persons, room and meals, for a minimum stay of five days. Other houses refused to make any reservations except on private arrangement with the manager, and still others had been booked "full up" for weeks. Similar policies were adopted as to the sale of seats from which to see the parade.

The Fair is after your business. See ad on 5th page.

BIG AUCTION SALE IN WASHINGTON TUESDAY

A feature of the inauguration not generally known about was witnessed Tuesday. It was a grand auction sale. It is said that this sale occurred at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue. The announcement of the auction sale read something like this:

"Having decided to move, we will sell at public auction at the east front door of the White House, Washington, D. C., on March 4th, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described property, to-wit:

"One Elephant, smooth mouthed, age uncertain, well fed but looks thin after a strenuous campaign, small scar on right side, having been gored by a bull moose.

"One set of golf sticks, slightly worn. One steam roller and fixtures, good as new, only used one year; one job lot of postoffice fixtures, and a lot of other party relics, etc., too numerous to mention.

"There will also be offered at the same time at Oyster Bay, the following described personal property to-wit:

"One BULL MOOSE, calved in June, 1912, but extra large for its age, and imported from Africa. One BIG STICK, slightly worn. Three socialist planks, good as new.

"Free lunch at noon. Bull Moose sandwiches will be served.

"TERMS OF SALE—Four years time on approved security notes, bearing three per cent interest from date of sale. All sums under thirty cents, cash in hand.

"There will be nothing reserved as we positively have to move.

"Taft Howard William, Rosenfeld Theodore, Owners.

Col. W. J. Bryan, Auctioneer. Woodrow Wilson, Clerk."

WOULD SEE MOON RISE AGAIN OVER FANCY GAP

Denied This Privilege, Floyd Allen Asks to Be Buried in Hills He Loves so Well

Richmond, March 2.—Floyd Allen wants to see the moon rise at least once more over Fancy Gap. That is what he told some of his friends a day or two ago when they were talking with him in his death cell in the Virginia penitentiary. Once more he would like to roam over Fancy Gap, as free as the mountain air.

And if the gratifications of this desire is denied him he wants to be buried among those very same hills which he loves so well. The old man is yet hopeful that Governor Mann will commute his sentence to a prison term.

His son Claude, who helped shoot up the court at Hillsville because "they were trying to kill pap," is likewise cheerful, even though the shadow of death in the electric chair is but a few days removed. The two men are scheduled to be electrocuted March 7, less than one week from today.

Meanwhile they are daily awaiting a message from the governor, in whose hands their fate now lies. A decision from his excellency will likely be forthcoming soon.

Among the staunch supporters of the condemned men is Captain Tom Haynes, of Giles, who does police duty at the capitol. Strolling through the corridors of the state building today, he pointed out to the photo of Dexter Goad in a group of legislators of the session of 1897-98.

"There's the man," said Haynes, "who wouldn't shake hands with Bryan when he addressed the Virginia legislature, because the great Nebraskan was a Democrat."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a regular council of Chickasaw Tribe No. 32, Imp'd. Order of Red Men, Wednesday night, March 5, 1913, resolutions of respect were ordered drawn on account of the death of Bro. T. E. Valentine's wife; Whereas, the Great Spirit has seen proper to take from the earth the companion of our brother; be it resolved that our tribe extends its sincerest sympathy in his affliction and point him to the Great Spirit who has promised to comfort and sustain the bereaved; that our charter be draped for a period of thirty days out of respect to the departed wife of our brother; that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our records, sent to Bro. Valentine and furnished our official organ (The Tomahawk) and the city press for publication.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

Monday afternoon, William Penn, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harrell was so horribly burned about the body and face that he died at 8 o'clock that night. The accident occurred at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Pickett. The child was playing up stairs when his clothes caught fire in some way from an open grate. Mrs. Pickett did her best to put the fire out, but the child was so severely burned that it lived only a few hours. Mrs. Pickett sustained several burns in attempting to save the child's life. It is a very sad occurrence and the sympathy of the people is with the bereaved parents.

CAPTAIN WESTMORELAND RESIGNS

DEATH OF GOOD WOMAN

Mrs. Molly Johnson, mother of June A. Johnson, died Wednesday afternoon at the home of her son on Centennial street after an illness of several days.

KRESS TO BUILD HERE

Kress, the well known five and ten cent store man, has decided to build on his lot on South Main Street, and it is learned that work will commence within a short time. This is one of the most valuable lots in the city, fronting on Main Street 50 feet, and on Rankin Street about the same distance, and running back something like over 200 feet.

GETTING READY TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

Sunday morning at the Washington Street M. E. Church pledges were made aggregating $36,000 to build a new church on North Main Street, on the Ham Lindsay property, recently purchased. The committee expects to make the amount $50,000 and build one of the handsomest churches in the state. Messrs. J. W. Harris and H. W. Frazier contributed $2000 each, O. E. Kearns, $1500, while several gave $1000 each, a good many more $500 and on down to $100.

DEATH OF MR. DIXON

Cleveland H. Dixon, a young man of Greensboro, died Sunday at St. Leo's Hospital, after a few days' illness. He was manager of the Insurance Department of the Southern Real Estate Company, Rev. A. G. Dixon, of High Point, is a brother of the deceased. The funeral services were held Monday, at Midway M. P. Church, in Rockingham County.

MARRIED IN GREENSBORO

Mr. H. E. Field and Miss Helen McCarthy were united in marriage Wednesday morning a few minutes after 12 o'clock in Greensboro, by squire D. H. Collins. Dallas Zollinger and John Lindsay accompanied the party to Greensboro and appeared as witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Field returned to High Point the same day and received the congratulations of their many friends.

Short Items for Busy People

At a mass meeting in Archdale last week the citizens seemed to be unanimous for the extension of the street car line to their town.

Ferd Ecker has returned from Johns Hopkins hospital, where he went for treatment.

Randal Mann is at home from the Staunton Military Academy on account of a sprained arm.

Mrs. H. S. Reed died at her home in Reidsville Monday. She was a sister of the late Judge Settle, and a relative of Mrs. Richardson.

We call attention to the inaugural address and other exercises of Woodrow Wilson in this issue, together with many other happenings of note.

Mrs. W. L. Stamey and daughter, Mamie Frances, have been quite sick for the past few days.

Watch out for the millinery opening of Miss Venetia Smith next week. It will pay you to wait. Exact dates to be announced later.

Miss Venetia Smith's millinery opening next week. Watch for dates.

Bryan talks like he won't remain long in the Wilson cabinet.

Let's all join hands and help the ladies towards civic beauty. It will be a good thing for our city. See prizes offered elsewhere.

Harry Thaw is again adjudged insane. The fact is Thaw has got more sense than about two-thirds of his accusers, and we believe he was justified in killing Stanford White and that he should be shown mercy.

We call attention to the ad of the Roland Park Company in this issue. The material has already arrived for putting in sewerage on this property, the side walks have already been put down, and the park presents a neat appearance.

Friday night, the Boy Scouts Minstrels will give an entertainment at the auditorium.

Miss Anna Dudley, of Baltimore is the milliner at H. A. Moffitt's.

The 31st of this month the next criminal court convenes.

The Gold bill substitutes Davidson for Randolph County in the redistricting—a good change.

March 12th is the next Lyceum attraction at the auditorium—the Price Concert Co.

Miss Virginia Clinard is convalescing from an attack of la grippe.

The greatest crowd in the history of Washington attended the inauguration of Wilson. Monday night the trains were so congested on the Potomac yards that it took hours for the people to get into Washington City.

Mrs. W. M. Tucker who has been confined to her room for several weeks is improving slowly.

Another moving picture show will open up for business here soon, occupying the room recently vacated by W. C. Barbare, the eye specialist.

A minister of the gospel should notice the poor as well as the rich, the low as well as the high, the anti-society creature as well as the society bud. That's what we were taught to believe. Sham and hypocrisy shouldn't be and isn't in the make-up of a real preacher.

The condition of Mrs. H. F. Stamey is fairly satisfactory. Mrs. Stamey it will be recalled broke her thigh nearly five weeks ago at the home of Mrs. Harry Hoffman on South Main street where she is at present.

Tilley's Emporium will occupy the Clark building on North Main street until Allen Bros. store is vacated when permanent location will be had.

Miss Gertrude Adams is the milliner at Moffitt Furnishing Co. this season.
